

COMPARISON OF BILLIONAIRES INCOME TAX PROPOSALS

FEATURE	PRESIDENT BIDEN	SEN. WYDEN	REP. BOWMAN
Proposal name	Billionaire Minimum Income Tax	Billionaires Income Tax	Babies Over Billionaires Act, H.R. 7502
Who pays the tax?	Only people worth at least $100 million—the richest 0.01% (about 20,000 households)	About 700 billionaires	Only people worth at least $100 million—the richest 0.01% (about 20,000 households)
How much money is raised (over 10 years)?	$361 Billion	$557 Billion	TBD; likely more than the Wyden plan
What share of the money comes from billionaires?	Over half	100%	A “disproportionate” amount
What tax rate is charged?	Enough to raise the overall tax rate of covered households to 20%	23.8%	23.8%
How does it treat tradable assets such as corporate stocks?	Growth in the value of tradable assets like stocks are assessed each year to determine if the taxpayer’s overall effective tax rate is at least 20%.	Growth in the value of tradable assets like stocks are taxed each year. Tax would also be due in the first year on the accumulated investment gains that predate enactment of the tax.	30% of the growth in the value of tradable assets like stocks are taxed each year.
How does it treat hard-to-price assets like private businesses and fine art?	Increases in the value of hard-to-price assets will be estimated each year. Taxpayers will be able to challenge those estimated values with appraisals.	Tax on hard-to-price assets won’t be due until the asset is sold and any increase in value determined. But taxpayers will owe interest on any missed annual tax payments.	Increases in the value of hard-to-price assets will be estimated each year. 50% of those gains will be taxed every five years.
What if someone’s wealth is tied up—such as in a business—and they don’t have the cash to pay the tax?	If someone has less than a fifth (20%) of their wealth invested in assets that are easy to convert to cash—like stocks and bonds—they are allowed to pay annual taxes only on their tradable assets. Tax on hard-to-price assets won’t be due until the asset is sold and any increase in value determined. But taxpayers will owe interest on any missed annual tax payments.	No special provisions for so-called “illiquid” taxpayers.	No special provisions for so-called “illiquid” taxpayers.

FEATURE	PRESIDENT BIDEN	SEN. WYDEN	REP. BOWMAN
Can the tax payments be made over time?	Taxpayers will have 9 years to pay any tax due on gains they made before the new tax came into effect. Then they'll have 5 years to pay taxes on any future gains.	Taxpayers will have 5 years to pay any tax due on gains they made before the new tax came into effect. They'll have to pay taxes on any future gains every year.	Taxpayers can choose to pay the tax assessed every five years on non-tradable assets in five equal annual installments, but they would be assessed a "deferral charge" for the privilege.
Sources	White House Fact Sheet U.S. Treasury General Explanations of 2023 Revenue Proposals (p. 34)	One-page Summary Section-by-Section Analysis JCT Revenue Estimate Draft Legislative Text	One-Page Summary Section-by-Section Analysis H.R. 7502 Bill Text

A more detailed version of this side-by-side comparison is available here.